These Are Closing Sales Each Day,

New York, Nov. 23.—The slump in Steel and Wire of 4½ points just at the close of the trading last evening was universally regarded as a danger signal. The speculative public came down to Wall street this morning in a mood receptive to suggestions of depression and reaction. The first suggestion came in the form of a further break of 3 points in Steel and Wire. Apparently no more effective point could have been selected at which to attack the market. This was known from previous experiences with this particular stock. The sudden weakness of Steel and Wire did not raise any doubt of the reports heretofore accepted of the prosperous conditions in that trade and the excellent prospects for the future, but it did arouse serious apprehension of a determination on the part of some of the steel magnates to enter upon a course of slashing competition and to unsettle the trade. The wide-reaching effect of such an outbreak of hostilities in the steel trade may be measured by the degree of apprehension exhibited by nolders of long stock to-day. The steel stocks themselves were most immediately affected, but heavy declines are shown in almost every department of the steel list. The prehension exhibited by holders of long stock to-day. The steel stocks themselves were most immediately affected, but heavy declines are shown in almost every department of the steel list. The sharp effect produced was due in part, of course, to the extended speculative accounts held all through the stock market. The purpose of the bear maneeuver was palpably to dislodge these holdings. The local traction stocks, the grangers, the Pacifics and Baltimore and Ohio were the most prominent in the downward movement. Sugar was freely sold on the cut in prices of refined sugar and coffee, which seemed to threaten a renewal of the trade war. But the stock was very feverish at all times. Practically the only effective resistance offered to the decline was in the early dealings. New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio showed continued strength at that time, New York Central rising 1% over last night. An effor was also made to boom Amalgamated Copper on the occasion of its first being dealt in in the unlisted department of the exchange, but the first price, which was 39½, was he highest. The price subsequently fell back to 97%, compared with 38½ in the curb market last night. The frequent railles during the day, when room shorts were taking quick profits, showed the professional bear character of the attack on the market. But the buying demand seemed not to extend beyond the short interest and the market quickly lost animation on the railies. The closing itself was wavering and uncertain, but at considerably above the lowest for many stocks. There was nothing in the receipts of gold from the Pacific coast insure a good increase in cash reserves for tomorrow's bank statement, although the net receipts from the interior on the express movement show considerable falling off from last week. There were firm spots in the bond market, but railroad bonds as a whole were affected by sympathy with the reactionary walve, $2,455,000.

The Cotton Markets.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET. New York, Nov. 23.—The public did not manifest much interest in to-day's cotton market, and while there were several spurts of general speculation for professional account, operations in the aggregate were disappointingly small. The undertone of the market, however was strong and prices from several spurts of general speculation for professional account, operations in the aggregate were disappointingly small. The undertone of the market, however, was strong, and prices from opening to closing were considerably above the final figures of the previous day. The feature of the news was a crop estimate by Neill, while the feature of the trading was the liquidation of several January long interests and the accumulation of extensive lines of May by the same partles. The market opened stendy, with prices showing an advance of 3% points. The opening figures proved about the lowest of the session. The bulls were reinforced by small receipts at the ports and by an estimate by Neill of 9,500,000 to 9,750,000 bales. The Liverpool market advanced upon receipt of this estimate. Our market, naturally, was strengthened decideduy by the favorable turn of affairs in the English market, particularly as the advance there led to foreign buying here. The South furnished an abundance of bullish information. Receipts were expected to drop off rapidly during the next ten days, as planters were selling very little cotton. The New England spinners and exporters, according to Southern dispatches, were obliged to raise their bids. The local market showed a special degree of strength in the afternoon, when the week-end figures made their appearance. The close was steady, with prices 5 to 11 points higher.
